

Evening Announcements.

BROADWAY THEATRE: Broadway, corner of Broome st., "Cast."

BROADWAY THEATRE: Bowery—Benefit of H. S. Abbott, Four Pages.

FRENCH THEATRE: 14th st. and 6th avenue—"Elizabeth, Queen of England."

OLYMPIC THEATRE: Broadway—O'Donnell's Miss Fortune.

NEW YORK THEATRE: opposite New York Hotel—"Under the Gas-Light."

BAXARD'S NEW YORK MUSEUM: Broadway.

TERACE GARDEN: 8d ave., 58th and 59th sts., Theodore Thomas Orchestra Concerts.

THEATRE COMIQUE: 5th Broadway, opposite Nicholas Holt—White, Cotton & Sharpless, "The Girl from the South."

GRIFFIN and CHRISTY'S MINSTRELS, corner Broadway and 22d st.—Ethiopian Songs, &c.

BAXARD'S MINSTRELS: 88th Broadway.

Elias Blue Entertainment—Have Ball Match!

KELLY & LEON'S MINSTRELS: 700 Broadway, Songs, Dances, &c. Southern Entertainments.

TONY PASTORE'S OPERA HOUSE: 201 Bowery.

Nero Minstrels, "Kings of the East." Pastore.

EIGHT AND A HALF OPERA HOUSE: 2nd st. and Park Avenue—Cast—Singing, Dancing, &c. O'Flahigan at the piano.

EDITH'S AMERICAN THEATRE: 42d Street, between Madison and Lexington—Elizabethan Valentine, &c.—The Virginia Mystery.

MCGOWAN'S OPERA HOUSE: Brooklyn.

BAUER'S MUSEUM: Broadway, near 34th st.—Old Mother Goose and the Golden Egg.

WAHLBURG'S THEATRE: Broadway and 42d st.—Uncle Tom's Cabin.

THE NEW YORK SUN.

“It Shines for All.”

FRIDAY MORNING, AUG. 26, 1867.

Subscribe for the $1. It is the cheapest morning paper

published, and your steady support will make it the best.

The Washington Monitor.

It now appears that General Grant went no farther than an earnest protest, in his opposition to the removal of Sumner and Steves. He did all he could to change the determination of the President, but he did not, as first reported, take the dangerous step of refusing to obey the order of his military superior. If he had so refused, there would have been a sharp collision between them, when Sherman would have appealed to the Senate. General Grant, however, did not do this, but was satisfied with a compromise, and the bill was passed by the Senate, and sent to the House.

BAUER'S MINSTRELS: 700 Broadway, near 34th st.—Old Mother Goose and the Golden Egg.

WAHLBURG'S THEATRE: Broadway and 42d st.—Uncle Tom's Cabin.

THE NEW YORK SUN.

“It Shines for All.”

FRIDAY MORNING, AUG. 26, 1867.

The Weather Question. A Card From Mr. Thacher.

New York, Thursday, Aug. 26th, 1867.

Dear Sir: I beg leave to express my thanks a thousand times to the readers of your most excellent paper for the facility with which the “weather” comments are received. We expect the weather will be one in ten, and that they have been seen. An apology is given for the long delay in sending the card, but the business of the day has been so full that we had no time at which to send the letters without an end to their welfare.

The Washington Monitor.

It now appears that General Grant went no farther than an earnest protest, in his opposition to the removal of Sumner and Steves.

He did all he could to change the determination of the President, but he did not, as first reported, take the dangerous step of refusing to obey the order of his military superior. If he had so refused, there would have been a sharp collision between them, when Sherman would have appealed to the Senate. General Grant, however, did not do this, but was satisfied with a compromise, and the bill was passed by the Senate, and sent to the House.

BAUER'S MINSTRELS: 700 Broadway, near 34th st.—Old Mother Goose and the Golden Egg.

WAHLBURG'S THEATRE: Broadway and 42d st.—Uncle Tom's Cabin.

THE NEW YORK SUN.

“It Shines for All.”

FRIDAY MORNING, AUG. 26, 1867.

The Weather Question. A Card From Mr. Thacher.

New York, Thursday, Aug. 26th, 1867.

Dear Sir: I beg leave to express my thanks a thousand times to the readers of your most excellent paper for the facility with which the “weather” comments are received. We expect the weather will be one in ten, and that they have been seen. An apology is given for the long delay in sending the card, but the business of the day has been so full that we had no time at which to send the letters without an end to their welfare.

The Washington Monitor.

It now appears that General Grant went no farther than an earnest protest, in his opposition to the removal of Sumner and Steves.

He did all he could to change the determination of the President, but he did not, as first reported, take the dangerous step of refusing to obey the order of his military superior. If he had so refused, there would have been a sharp collision between them, when Sherman would have appealed to the Senate. General Grant, however, did not do this, but was satisfied with a compromise, and the bill was passed by the Senate, and sent to the House.

BAUER'S MINSTRELS: 700 Broadway, near 34th st.—Old Mother Goose and the Golden Egg.

WAHLBURG'S THEATRE: Broadway and 42d st.—Uncle Tom's Cabin.

THE NEW YORK SUN.

“It Shines for All.”

FRIDAY MORNING, AUG. 26, 1867.

The Weather Question. A Card From Mr. Thacher.

New York, Thursday, Aug. 26th, 1867.

Dear Sir: I beg leave to express my thanks a thousand times to the readers of your most excellent paper for the facility with which the “weather” comments are received. We expect the weather will be one in ten, and that they have been seen. An apology is given for the long delay in sending the card, but the business of the day has been so full that we had no time at which to send the letters without an end to their welfare.

The Washington Monitor.

It now appears that General Grant went no farther than an earnest protest, in his opposition to the removal of Sumner and Steves.

He did all he could to change the determination of the President, but he did not, as first reported, take the dangerous step of refusing to obey the order of his military superior. If he had so refused, there would have been a sharp collision between them, when Sherman would have appealed to the Senate. General Grant, however, did not do this, but was satisfied with a compromise, and the bill was passed by the Senate, and sent to the House.

BAUER'S MINSTRELS: 700 Broadway, near 34th st.—Old Mother Goose and the Golden Egg.

WAHLBURG'S THEATRE: Broadway and 42d st.—Uncle Tom's Cabin.

THE NEW YORK SUN.

“It Shines for All.”

FRIDAY MORNING, AUG. 26, 1867.

The Weather Question. A Card From Mr. Thacher.

New York, Thursday, Aug. 26th, 1867.

Dear Sir: I beg leave to express my thanks a thousand times to the readers of your most excellent paper for the facility with which the “weather” comments are received. We expect the weather will be one in ten, and that they have been seen. An apology is given for the long delay in sending the card, but the business of the day has been so full that we had no time at which to send the letters without an end to their welfare.

The Washington Monitor.

It now appears that General Grant went no farther than an earnest protest, in his opposition to the removal of Sumner and Steves.

He did all he could to change the determination of the President, but he did not, as first reported, take the dangerous step of refusing to obey the order of his military superior. If he had so refused, there would have been a sharp collision between them, when Sherman would have appealed to the Senate. General Grant, however, did not do this, but was satisfied with a compromise, and the bill was passed by the Senate, and sent to the House.

BAUER'S MINSTRELS: 700 Broadway, near 34th st.—Old Mother Goose and the Golden Egg.

WAHLBURG'S THEATRE: Broadway and 42d st.—Uncle Tom's Cabin.

THE NEW YORK SUN.

“It Shines for All.”

FRIDAY MORNING, AUG. 26, 1867.

The Weather Question. A Card From Mr. Thacher.

New York, Thursday, Aug. 26th, 1867.

Dear Sir: I beg leave to express my thanks a thousand times to the readers of your most excellent paper for the facility with which the “weather” comments are received. We expect the weather will be one in ten, and that they have been seen. An apology is given for the long delay in sending the card, but the business of the day has been so full that we had no time at which to send the letters without an end to their welfare.

The Washington Monitor.

It now appears that General Grant went no farther than an earnest protest, in his opposition to the removal of Sumner and Steves.

He did all he could to change the determination of the President, but he did not, as first reported, take the dangerous step of refusing to obey the order of his military superior. If he had so refused, there would have been a sharp collision between them, when Sherman would have appealed to the Senate. General Grant, however, did not do this, but was satisfied with a compromise, and the bill was passed by the Senate, and sent to the House.

BAUER'S MINSTRELS: 700 Broadway, near 34th st.—Old Mother Goose and the Golden Egg.

WAHLBURG'S THEATRE: Broadway and 42d st.—Uncle Tom's Cabin.

THE NEW YORK SUN.

“It Shines for All.”

FRIDAY MORNING, AUG. 26, 1867.

The Weather Question. A Card From Mr. Thacher.

New York, Thursday, Aug. 26th, 1867.

Dear Sir: I beg leave to express my thanks a thousand times to the readers of your most excellent paper for the facility with which the “weather” comments are received. We expect the weather will be one in ten, and that they have been seen. An apology is given for the long delay in sending the card, but the business of the day has been so full that we had no time at which to send the letters without an end to their welfare.

The Washington Monitor.

It now appears that General Grant went no farther than an earnest protest, in his opposition to the removal of Sumner and Steves.

He did all he could to change the determination of the President, but he did not, as first reported, take the dangerous step of refusing to obey the order of his military superior. If he had so refused, there would have been a sharp collision between them, when Sherman would have appealed to the Senate. General Grant, however, did not do this, but was satisfied with a compromise, and the bill was passed by the Senate, and sent to the House.

BAUER'S MINSTRELS: 700 Broadway, near 34th st.—Old Mother Goose and the Golden Egg.

WAHLBURG'S THEATRE: Broadway and 42d st.—Uncle Tom's Cabin.

THE NEW YORK SUN.

“It Shines for All.”

FRIDAY MORNING, AUG. 26, 1867.

The Weather Question. A Card From Mr. Thacher.

New York, Thursday, Aug. 26th, 1867.

Dear Sir: I beg leave to express my thanks a thousand times to the readers of your most excellent paper for the facility with which the “weather” comments are received. We expect the weather will be one in ten, and that they have been seen. An apology is given for the long delay in sending the card, but the business of the day has been so full that we had no time at which to send the letters without an end to their welfare.

The Washington Monitor.

It now appears that General Grant went no farther than an earnest protest, in his opposition to the removal of Sumner and Steves.

He did all he could to change the determination of the President, but he did not, as first reported, take the dangerous step of refusing to obey the order of his military superior. If he had so refused, there would have been a sharp collision between them, when Sherman would have appealed to the Senate. General Grant, however, did not do this, but was satisfied with a compromise, and the bill was passed by the Senate, and sent to the House.

BAUER'S MINSTRELS: 700 Broadway, near 34th st.—Old Mother Goose and the Golden Egg.

WAHLBURG'S THEATRE: Broadway and 42d st.—Uncle Tom's Cabin.

THE NEW YORK SUN.

“It Shines for All.”

FRIDAY MORNING, AUG. 26, 1867.

The Weather Question. A Card From Mr. Thacher.

New York, Thursday, Aug. 26th, 1867.

Dear Sir: I beg leave to express my thanks a thousand times to the readers of your most excellent paper for the facility with which the “weather” comments are received. We expect the weather will be one in ten, and that they have been seen. An apology is given for the long delay in sending the card, but the business of the day has been so full that we had no time at which to send the letters without an end to their welfare.

The Washington Monitor.

It now appears that General Grant went no farther than an earnest protest, in his opposition to the removal of Sumner and Steves.

He did all he could to change the determination of the President, but he did not, as first reported, take the dangerous step of refusing to obey the order of his military superior. If he had so refused, there would have been a sharp collision between them, when Sherman would have appealed to the Senate. General Grant, however, did not do this, but was satisfied with a compromise, and the bill was passed by the Senate, and sent to the House.

BAUER'S MINSTRELS: 700 Broadway, near 34th st.—Old Mother Goose and the Golden Egg.

WAHLBURG'S THEATRE: Broadway and 42d st.—Uncle Tom's Cabin.

THE NEW YORK SUN.

“It Shines for All.”

FRIDAY MORNING, AUG. 26, 1867.

The Weather Question. A Card From Mr. Thacher.

New York, Thursday, Aug. 26th, 1867.

Dear Sir: I beg leave to express my thanks a thousand times to the readers of your most excellent paper for the facility with which the “weather” comments are received. We expect the weather will be one in ten, and that they have been seen. An apology is given for the long delay in sending the card, but the business of the day has been so full that we had no time at which to send the letters without an end to their welfare.

The Washington Monitor.

It now appears that General Grant went no farther than an earnest protest, in his opposition to the removal of Sumner and Steves.

He did all he could to change the determination of the President, but he did not, as first reported, take the dangerous step of refusing to obey the order of his military superior. If he had so refused, there would have been a sharp collision between them, when Sherman would have appealed to the Senate. General Grant, however, did not do this, but was satisfied with a compromise, and the bill was passed by the Senate, and sent to the House.

BAUER'S MINSTRELS: 700 Broadway, near 34th st.—Old Mother Goose and the Golden Egg.

WAHLBURG'S THEATRE: Broadway and 42d st.—Uncle Tom's Cabin.